Antrim Room

Due to its generous proportions the Antrim Room is by far the most useful room in the Club, it is just as comfortable hosting a club or society dinner of up to 50 with the real fire roaring in the period fireplace as it is a company A.G.M, laid out with company displays, whilst maintaining the intimacy and quality expected in a private members club.

As with most of the function rooms furniture can within reason, be configured to suit your exact requirements. For more information about layouts please contact the Chief Executive.

Please Note - The Cabin, Boardroom and Antrim Room are all linked by joining doors and so can be used a suite or individually, for example a drinks reception in The Cabin with the function taking place in The Boardroom. For business purposes The Antrim Room is ideal for plenary sessions with The Cabin and The Boardroom being used for breakout sessions.

Board Room

The overall proportions of the room and the size of the table make it the perfect setting for lunches or dinner parties of up to 18 people. In the evenings with the standard lamps on, the flickering of the flames in the period fireplace and the table dressed, it will provide you with one of the most elegant dining experiences.

Positioned in the corner of the building, with the minimum of noise and disruption, The Boardroom provides an ideal setting for formal business meetings with ample space for screens, projectors, flip-charts etc.

Cabin

Although the smallest of the private rooms The Cabin makes an ideal room for intimate lunch or dinner parties of up to 10, being small gives it a very homely feel.

The size of the room also makes it very useful for small business meetings and interviews.

Bar

The comfort of the refurbished bar is complimented by the relaxed ambience that prevails. It boasts many military pictures, silverware, plaques etc presented to the Club since its opening in 1885.

Members and their guests can enjoy refreshments from the well stocked bar which includes local beers and a selection of fine wines.

The room has been designed in such a way that it can be sub-divided to cater for private functions, alternatively, the bar can cater for up to 100 guests for pre event receptions.
